Summary Description

The ISP Advanced programme is designed for music graduates who wish to develop their creative practice through a dedicated programme of study routed in studio or practice-based activity. It is an opportunity for students to access high-quality conservatoire postgraduate study and may provide an entry route to further specialist/vocational training (e.g. a PG Diploma or Masters level programme within the conservatoire sector) or a platform for a dedicated period of professional development activity. Students may also wish to use the programme as a platform for access to London's vibrant cultural life.

Admission

Admission to the ISP Advanced programme is assessed in relation to the Faculty of Music's standard procedures.

Applicants who have an undergraduate degree in any subject are eligible for entry into the ISP Advanced (Graduate Certificate) programme at level 6. The programme is benchmarked against the Faculty of Music's degree and diploma programmes.

Applicants are required to pass an entrance audition for entry to the programme or meet the progression requirements if they are currently studying at Trinity Laban. The performance at entrance audition will be considered alongside the applicant's educational background and attainments in determining the appropriate level of study.

English Language entry requirements: Level B2 (5.5 all areas of IELTS or equivalent)

Each student will agree a formal learning agreement with the programme leader at the start of the programme as a condition of registration.

All applicants apply through UCAS Conservatoires, except when progressing to a higher level.

Progression

After completing, the ISP Advanced (Graduate Certificate) students may progress to a postgraduate diploma or Masters programme, or to the ISP Advanced (Professional Certificate). In order to progress to a higher level, you must pass all elements of assessment.

It is not possible to invoke Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) in order to transfer credit from the ISP Advanced programme to any other Trinity Laban programme of study.

What will I be expected to achieve?

The programme aims for Level 6 are: (drawn from BMus Professional Studies 6(2))

LEVEL 6(2):

- To enable students to develop sophisticated and assured technique and musical development appropriate for entrance into the profession
- To enable students to make independent choices in relation to repertoire, style and technical issues
- To enable students to develop independence in their approach to study
- To enable students to plan future professional development

How will I learn?

Learning takes place through a blend of formal tuition, experiential learning and personal study. Instrumental, composition, or vocal tuition/supervision is the central element of the provision, with the Professional Studies module consisting of individual one-to-one learning, group tuition, rehearsals, workshops, seminars and masterclasses. You will develop and contextualize your individual tuition/supervision within a broad range of solo, small-group/chamber, and large-ensemble activities including the CoLab module.

Tuition within the Additional Study Opportunities area (where taken) is delivered through formal taught sessions. Throughout the programme your learning will be consolidated through extensive self-study. Delivered in small groups, wherever possible practical experience is blended with theoretical knowledge to develop performers/composers' informed musicianship and employability skills. Where appropriate, Principal Study teachers, lecturers, visiting artists, and ensemble coaches/directors expose students to a variety of views and approaches current within the profession.

The programme aims to enable you to further develop your independent learning strategies for lifelong learning. Your tutors will regularly encourage you to reflect on learning and to formulate personal programmes of study and targets for learning.

Certain elements of the programme may involve your studying with another student(s) in a collaborative way (e.g. with other musicians, dancers or other artists in a working relationship). This may involve you working alongside, and/or undertaking leadership responsibilities for other (possibly undergraduate) students engaged in projects with you as, for example, assistant directors or lead performers. Collaboration is considered to be at the heart of professional artistic life and, as such, opportunities such as these represent valuable learning experiences.

In its full-time mode, this programme assumes 800 learning and teaching hours with approximately 270 hours' average contact time – of course, this will vary depending on the principal study discipline and the selected components, so you will need to examine each module's specification to determine the precise number of hours.

How will I be assessed?

- In the Professional Studies module, you will be assessed on your Major (Principal Study) Performance/Composition discipline. There are no specific programme requirements, however performers are expected to present an artistically convincing programme which may explore a variety of composers and styles; a programme focussing on a particular specialist repertoire is also acceptable.

- The CoLab module requires participation in a designated project but no formal assessment.
- Additional Study Opportunities (see below): students choosing to take an additional study option module or component will be required to undertake the appropriate assessments. These will feature a blend of written and practical assessment methods (including, but not exclusive to essay, analysis, composition, improvisation, performance, editions etc.) arrived at through negotiation between the student and tutor depending on the material under consideration.

There is no formal assessment for other performance/composition activities including chamber/small ensemble, large ensemble or technical work.

What do I have to do to pass?

The pass mark for each assessment component is identified in the grade descriptors for your level. The proposed grade will reflect, in the view of the assessment panel, the extent to which the student's work has met both the general and module/component-specific assessment criteria. There are provisions to retrieve a failure as outlined in the Assessment Regulations for the programme.
